in this book Molly Zahn investigates how early Jewish scribes rewrote their authoritative traditions in the course of transmitting them from minor edits in the course of copying to whole new compositions based on prior works scholars have detected evidence for rewriting in a wide variety of textual contexts but Zahn's is the first book to map manuscripts and translations of biblical books so called parabiblical compositions and the sectarian literature from Qumran in relation to one another she introduces a new adaptable set of terms for talking about rewriting using the idea of genre as a tool to compare and contrast different cases although rewriting has generally been understood as a vehicle for biblical interpretation Zahn moves beyond that framework to demonstrate that rewriting was a pervasive textual strategy in the second temple period her book contributes to a powerful new model of early Jewish textuality illuminating the rich and diverse culture out of which both rabbinic Judaism and early Christianity eventually emerged master s thesis from the year 2018 in the subject interpreting translating grade 108 university of ferrara language english abstract the main topic of this work is the imposed silence on women in translation an activity that had always been the only intellectual activity that was considered suitable for them the first chapter wanted to define the concept of translation in all its facets and all historical and cultural tendencies particularly it was observed that translation was suitable for women because of its intellectual inferiority and because of this was the only academical activity suitable for them but in the course of history it became just another tool at the service of the dominant part in society the male part that used it only to oppress women to affirm this all the attempts made by women to break the silence imposed to them were considered starting form the history of the feminist movement and all other ideologies that contributed to create and support the stereotypes imposed on women the second chapter analyses the first english translation of the odyssey by the greek poet homer made by a woman professor emily wilson in fact all the available english translations of this text were made by men that succeeded in reducing women to silence this was an innovative text and to demonstrate this the relevant passages featuring the female protagonists of the book were compared with the version by peter green in the attempt to find the main differences not only stylistic but also the ones given by the different gender of the translator also it was possible to find the sexism that had already been present in the book but was reinforced in all translations key tool for this analysis was skopos theory that puts in the first place the functionality of translation and most of all considers the importance of the cultural aspect in the definition of every translated text
